Re. 2015 Ontario Sex Ed Curriculum

Dear School Trustee,

As a parent, I have deep concerns about the 2015 Sex Ed curriculum. The Ontario government disrespects the difference of culture, faith, social and family values, pushed a sex education agenda written under the direction of a convicted child pornographer, Ben Levi, then a Deputy Education Minister. The consultation process was a bold lie. The new Sex-Ed Curriculum plants wrong seeds at wrong season. It promotes sexual knowledge, sexual pleasure and sexual freedom, and confuses children with six genders and variety of sexual expressions and orientations. It denies parents as the primary educator and detaches sex from love, commitment, responsibility, marriage, faith, moral values and social consequences. Young children are groomed towards sexual exploitation and promiscuity which only result in STIs, HIV/AIDS, pregnancies, cancer and self-destruction.

The STI /HIV teaching in the curriculum mislead children that sex is safe as long as they use condom. It normalizes high risk of sexual behaviors and equalizes homosexual and heterosexual acts in the young minds. It fails to mention that anal sex greatly increases the risks of HIV infection and people could die of HIV/AIDS! And it could cause potential HIV spreads by saying "HIV treatment can reduce the amount of HIV in someone's body to the point where it is much less likely that HIV will be transmitted". The curriculum says that "One of the best things you can do to stop HIV is to stop the stigma that is associated with having the infection". How in the world a school curriculum introduced by the government can be this misleading!!!

This curriculum leaves young children with the perception that it is acceptable to have sex with any "partner" as long as they get "sexual consent" and they can just "do it". Consensual sex doesn't make sex safe! Without clarifying the legal age for consenting and engaging in sex (especially anal sex), children under-age could become a victim or be brought into jail under the Canadian Criminal Code 159.

What's missing from the Sex-Ed Curriculum is even more worrisome. "Rape, pedophilia, child pornography and incest" are not brought up and warned as criminals. The potential threats and harmful effects posed to young children by adult sexual predators, or adults that might be interested in obtaining materials about their bodies (especially genitals) are not mentioned. It forces parents to ask whether this omission is not actually intentional, and to what extent this omission was influenced by people like the pedophile Deputy Education Minister Ben Levin?

Besides, who are the "Community Partners and Organizations" which will engage and mentor young children's sex education inside and outside of schools? Is there any supervision system in checking the contents and age appropriateness? Who is there guarding the safety of children?

With mountains of evidence, the poison of this Sex-Ed Curriculum will be sneakily and slowly slipping into young children's thirsty mind which will have profound impacts both on the children and parents, both at school and home, both present and future, physically, spiritually, emotionally and socially in every imaginary way!

My humble plea to you, as elected school trustee, please speak up for young children, use your power to create a motion which will postpone the implementation of the sex ed curriculum this fall and allow time for real consultation. You will be appreciated by thousands and thousands of parents and children of generations to come.

Sincerely,

Parent of three children
